Founder Joanne McEachen and business partner Daniel Paul, took Contributive Learning beyond the K-12 education space launching Peerwell. The intention of Peerwell is to provide tools and community for businesses and universities, fostering mental well-being and resilience through peer learning, and creating supportive environments.

MATHEMATICS

Contributive Learning Through Mathematics professional Learning grew and debuted in the United States starting in Washington State.

We dove deep into Contributive Learning with John Burgin trialing the program 'Tech Tempest.' The program 'gave students an opportunity to experience rich learning experiences in the context of the world of work in business and tech industries.

Thank you to all our partners in education for a great 2024! We look forward to 2025, contributing with you, as we continue to transform education with Contributive Learning across the globe!

Be on the look out for our revised “monthly connection” which will now be released quarterly (April, June, September, and December) and will focus on highlighting partner schools and provide some applicable tools/resources/ideas for bringing Contributive Learning to all schools.

Transforming Pedagogy with Contributive Learning™

KEY PRINCIPLES OF CONTRIBUTIVE LEARNING™

Contributive Learning centers on the idea that education should not only impart knowledge but also foster well-being and a sense of purpose among learners.

o o o o

o o o o

HOLISTIC DEVELOPMENT

Academic, emotional, social, and ethical growth, ensuring that students are well-rounded individuals capable of critical thinking and empathy.

REAL-WORLD RELEVANCE

Engaging with authentic problems and projects, students learn to apply their knowledge in meaningful ways, preparing them for the complexities of the modern world.

STUDENT AGENCY

When students have a voice in their education, they become more motivated and invested in their growth and success.

COMMUNITY & COLLABORATION

Learning is not a solitary endeavor. This collective effort not only enhances learning outcomes but also fosters a sense of belonging and shared responsibility.

The purpose of education is to learn to contribute—not in a specific or standardized way, but in personally relevant, purposeful ways unique to individuals' interests and goals.
